County Court voted the appropriation for the Elkton bridge Monday by 13 to 10. This is one of the most important measures enacted in some time and the action of the Court will be endorsed by a large majority of the people in the county. We suppose the work will commence immediately as soon as the bids are in.

There was a white frost in this locality Monday morning, but the weather had been so dry for several weeks that no serious damage resulted from it. In fact, many farmers think it was advantageous to the cotton. The plant is very rank this year, and the frost has had the effect to thin out the leaves and let in the sun, without seriously damaging the bolls.

Capt. Field Arrowsmith returned from the East Saturday, and now has a splendid stock of clothing, &amp;c., coming in. He is a merchant of large experience, and the firm is doing the largest business in that line ever attempted in Pulaski. They will give an extended notice through these columns next week, and in the meantime persons had better call and see the advantages they offer in qualities and prices.

Gen'l Bate and Gov. Foote addressed a large number of citizens at Antioch Hall yesterday. Their speeches were about the same that have been published all over the State. Gen'l Bate fully and ably sustained his cause and hurled with vigor the thunderbolts of logic and truth at the vulnerable carcass of radicalism. Gov. Foote, as usual, had his hands full to explain. We would be glad to be more elaborate but time and space are wanting.

Dr. DuBose was absent from his pulpit last Sunday, attending the Presbyterian Synod then in session at Shelbyville. On his return he ran up to Bowling Green, Ky., and spent a day with his son. He returned home Tuesday night on the train that brought the Annual M. E. Conference to Columbia, and a company of soldiers to Alabama. He did not say whether or not he heard the chickens squall as he passed Columbia. He will fill his pulpit next Sunday morning as usual.

Albert Keystone was united in marriage with some colored female woman last week, or at least was to have been. A subscription paper was passed around town to get money to buy his license. The people were afraid to refuse to subscribe, for fear of troops. Albert came here as the end man in Bill Key's band wagon and his amiable qualities soon secured him a situation in the workhouse. Now see what he has come to—married under the pauper act.

Our friend and fellow countryman Jordan Phillips, exhibited in our office last Monday some beautiful specimens of penmanship. He proposes to teach the art to others, and will commence a school at Bodensham next Friday. We sincerely wish him success in his new vocation. Having lost a leg in the late unpleasantness, and thereby unfitted for more active pursuits, he has qualified himself to teach penmanship, and hopes to make a living thereby. Other neighborhoods are also making up schools for him.

G. W. McLaurens &amp; Co. are candidates for a division of the Book, Shoe and Hat trade in Pulaski. They have in a new stock, selected in person, and they offer them remarkably low. Mr. Theo. Richardson is a member of the firm and will be in the house continually. We are glad to welcome him back to Pulaski, and we are confident his known sterling worth and extra business tact will attract his friends and build up a good trade. They are all old merchants and reliable men, and we predict for the house a prosperous career.

The Reception.

Gen'l Bate was accorded a grand reception by the Tilden and Hendricks Club and the citizens generally on Tuesday night. A committee met him with a carriage at the depot and brought him to the Alamo, where a large concourse of citizens had assembled and the corner band was playing a stirring air. Capt. Jno. C. Lester welcomed Gen'l Bate in a beautiful address, eulogizing his efforts for the reform ticket. Gen'l Bate replied in a happy and appropriate speech, such as is peculiar to Bate, and retired amid vociferous cheers. He retired to his room and there received calls from a large number of our people until a late hour.

Misses M. and F. Kamp having spent some weeks in the city, have returned with purchases and taking observations of the fashions, have returned, and will open the fall stock next Monday. The ladies are invited to call and see the new styles, make their purchases and leave their orders.

Dr. C. C. Abernathy has placed us under obligations for the finest lot of Bermuda and Southern Green potatoes we ever saw raised in town, and we believe in Giles county. One weighed four pounds, and all averaged heavy. The Doctor is a scientific gardener and florist. It is really a treat to go through his beautiful flower garden, which is cared for as much by his lady as himself, but these potatoes show that he goes in for the substantial as well. Andrew McGuire, his faithful colored boy, deserves some of the praise for having helped to raise them. We thank the Doctor.

Iron.

Bar Iron at 3 cents. All small sizes in same proportion. sep28-4t FLAATT, MARTIN &amp; CO.

Rosenbau &amp; Loveman's mammoth advertisement will strike the first glance of the reader this morning. This house does a mammoth business, and Mr. Loveman has reduced his business almost to a science. The best of goods, tastefully and carefully selected, of all kinds and fashions, are displayed in the house with exquisite skill, and the best of all is they sell you guaranteed qualities at the lowest cash prices. It is one of the best dry goods houses Pulaski ever had, and it has merited the large trade it has acquired. Mr. Will. S. Ezell is behind the counters now, and will wait upon his friends with his old time affability and promptness.

The Tilden and Hendricks Club met Monday night and was addressed by Capt. T. D. Deavenport, Judge Tinnon and others. The Club instituted the reception given Gen'l Bate Tuesday night, appointing the entire Club a committee for that purpose. It was suggested that an effort be made to get up a barbecue on the 24th inst, the day Gov. Harris is to be here, but no definite action was taken. We would like to hear an expression from the people as to whether they would take the trouble and contribute to this end. Giles has not had a general political rally in years, and we believe that such a demonstration would be prolific of good results.

The 44th Congress convenes in the court-house next Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock. We hope to see the members all present, as there are important measures to come up involving the very life of the Republic, as it were. The times are exceedingly lively and the political goose suspends in altitudinem, so to speak. Let the people come out and watch their servants as they stand upon the watch-towers and dodge the enemy's balls, in a manner. Political lines will be strictly drawn and the very devil will be to pay, classically speaking. The dead lock of last session will be broken by a wave of popular indignation and the appropriation bills will slip through, just merely. Let everybody come, for a change!

A young Pulaski gent has a sweetheart "over the hills and far away" west of town. He went to see her a foot the other night, before the new moon, and on his return got tangled up in the gulleys on West Hill, so that he didn't know whether he was exploring the caverns at Hell Gate, or stumbling through the anyons around the Black Hills. While he was studying which was the best way not to go he suddenly went the wrong way, and all at once didn't get any further. He didn't know whether the Hell Gate dynamite had burst or Gen'l Sitting Bull had waltzed off with his scalp, but his conscience told him that something had happened (and also his stomach) and he didn't know what it was until he heard the cow bellow. Then he recollected that he stumbled over a stump and fell sprawling right across a cow that had retired for the night. When he fell the cow concluded to get up before he did. A cow always gets up behind first, and our friend happened to be riding behind, and as she got up he was so evenly balanced that he rolled on down her back and over her head and into the dirt with his Sunday clothes and eery vest and Dolly Varden sock, all together, and then he grunted. Who wouldn't? If ever there was a time for a good square grunt, then was the time. He muttered something like "he'll be going to show his tax receipt." But Judge Morris, as a member of the Legislature in 1870, voted for a law prescribing the period, and fixing it at once that no vote would be compelled to show his tax receipt. But Judge Morris, as a member of the Legislature in 1870, voted for a law prescribing the period, and fixing it at once that no vote would be compelled to show his tax receipt. But Judge Morris, as a member of the Legislature in 1870, voted for a law prescribing the period, and fixing it at once that no vote would be compelled to show his tax receipt.

Monday's Speaking.

Mr. Taliaferro led off in the court house Monday to a large crowd in an able argument in support of his party and laying down his own plan of action when he comes to the Legislature, making about the same speech as heretofore reported. He did not spare Esq. Reed, but showed his record in all its hideousness. Esq. Reed was loudly called for when Mr. T. got through, and he came into the court-room and said that in 1868 or 9 he was speaking in that court-room and came near being mobbed, but for the intervention of the sheriff, and that he was afraid to speak there, but if the people would come down in the court yard he would speak where he had a chance to run if they tried to mob him. This is the dimmest, most ridiculous and contemptible effort to manufacture gore for the bloody shirt we ever saw, and Esq. Reed knew that he was as safe there as if he had had a legion of angels around him. He did it for effect, and the effect was a most ridiculous fizzle. When he got to speaking in the courthouse-yard he made the feeblest effort to remove the slime in which his record has enveloped him that we ever heard. The negroes and whites united in ridiculing his efforts, and when Mr. Taliaferro told that he had said out at Garrett's that a nigger had no business running for office, the colored men evinced strong disapprobation. When Mr. Reed came to explain this he said that the reason colored men had no business running for office was that they could not hold it after they got it—that if one was elected his head would pay the forfeit. He knew, that this was the cause when he said it, and he said it only to stir up that radical hate and incendiarist spirit that is the first principle of the stinking policy he advocates. He labored by threats and dares to get some one in the crowd to strike him, and put up a pitiable move to be made a martyr that he might furnish campaign matter for the radical bolls. This is simply and unqualifiedly little and ridiculous and does not become a man that has hitherto borne the reputation for honesty that Esq. Reed has. He did everything in his power while a legislator to oppress his people, and now he explains his course by saying that he gave votes then that he would not give now; and while he is saying that, he labors by every means to create a feeling and stir up violence, showing that he is willing to sacrifice the peace and good of his own people to further the diabolical ends of radicalism. It is simply bosh, and we are sorry to see Esq. Reed take such a course. Our duty to our people calls upon us to censure these things in Esq. Reed, and we do hope that the people throughout the county will treat him so kindly that he will be ashamed that he ever invoked the demon of hate to assist him to the legislature.

After the speaking by Messrs. Reed and Taliaferro, Judge Jonathan Morris, of Wayne, took the stand and announced himself an independent candidate for the State Senate. He said he was as good a democrat as any body, no disorganizer, but opposed to conventions. He had never been the nominee of a convention, and had been generally successful in running for office. That he was a candidate long before the Lawrenceburg convention, and was asked to submit his claims there, but refused, and he was not therefore bound by its action. As a measure of relief, he was in favor of leaving treasury warrants and making the collector's taxes, and he would collect a tax of only 10 or 15 cents on the $100 which would be sufficient to run the State Government. That penitentiary convicts ought to be put to work building railroads. If this were done, we could have a railroad from Pulaski to Clifton. He is opposed to the dog law, the ten per cent. law, the present assessment law and the school law.

Capt. Deavenport followed and said that he was the nominee of the Democratic party for State Senator; that this nomination was not asked for by him, but that he was a record about conventions is inconsistent. He was a delegate from Wayne to the Congressional convention at Lawrenceburg in August last, and he was elected to cast the vote of his county. The same delegates on the same day held a Senatorial convention and nominated him. If Judge Morris thought it was proper to get into a convention to nominate a candidate for Congress for seven counties, how can he say that it was improper to hold a convention to nominate a Senator for four of the counties? It seems that he favors conventions to make nominations for offices that he does not aspire to, and is opposed to them only when they are held for the purpose of electing a man to a position of honor and authority. After the ceremony the happy pair retired to a lecturing tour, leaving the baby, by the advice of T. L. N. under the charge of a pet chimpanzee of remarkable fidelity of disposition. After a trip of many months during which they associated with the people of all nations, and made a large folio volume on the subject of pepper as an educational aid, they returned to Elkton and found that the chimpanzee, having been neglected and starved, had become a white cap and curls, and put in the baby's cradle, it would take the price at the fairs, and mothers would come to weep over its beauty. After many years of bliss, the happy pair slept under a monument, on which was the device of two large hearts pierced through with a steel rod, and inscribed with the legend of the loves of Maxima and T. L. N.

is not true. I voted for a resolution to submit the question to the people as a separate proposition to be voted upon, but this resolution did not pass, and I then voted for the clause in the constitution as it now stands. I believe the majority of our people desire the repeal of the ten per cent. law and the dog law, and I shall vote to repeal them.

There is a great revival going on at present at Edin's school-house. The Rev. Mr. Woodward and others are earnestly preaching and laboring for the good of sinners. Many have accepted of the Gospel, and others are anxious and mourning. May they find rest.

Cotton is something better than it has been for some time. It is not well bolted. People here will plant more grain and less cotton. Corn suffered from the drought, but there is an abundance. There is enough among the friends of the One to give all the old mads and old bachelors in Tennessee a No. one sweetening.

Spoke at Elkton Springs on the 25th of September. His opponent is nothing more than a brittle reed in his hands. Mr. T. is the right man in the right place, and will represent us with honor and talent. We hope to have the pleasure some day of voting for him and Laps, to succeed Tilden and Hendricks.

At present there seems to be some doubt whether the dog tax is a poll tax or a tail tax. Some contend that it is a tail tax, and this being so, that if the legislature will amend the law, they can collect enough of money not only to pay off the National and State debts, but they will have enough left to resume specie payment, and plenty to divide among their friends. They prove it thus: No dog has 99 tails. Well, every dog has one tail more than no dog; therefore every dog has 100 tails. Now, 100 tails at $1 a tail would make $100 to the dog. So you see there is some reason in it.

"SILVER THREADS AMONG THE GOLD."

Another method to pay our debts, national, State and individual, is proposed. It is this: As "Silver Threads among the Gold" is very prevalent, the legislature should organize a State barber's association, and authorize the members to cut and shave the heads of all those that have gold or silver threads, and use the proceeds to pay our indebtedness. If any are held they must use a razor for their own hair, and the proceeds of the shaves will raise the advantage of cheapness and deserve a trial.

At present, the most exciting topic here is chufa. This is a plant resembling the grass but in appearance, but differing from it in quantity and quality. Its productive and nutritive powers are indeed wonderful. It multiplies seven hundred fold. One acre of chufa is equal to between 20 and 30 acres of corn for horses. This meat is said to be equal
